The Amendments.

There can be no doubt that a wonderful rausformation in the nature of the Federal Government has been going on from the days of the fathers of the Constitution until now. What was originally designed to be a Government of restricted powers operating within well-defined limits has ome a general, consolidated, central potism. The very words which the framers of that instrument used as a eans of limiting the powers of the General Government are now so construed as to make those words apply to the govern-

It is instructive to read the first eleven articles of amendment to the Federal Constitution, and learn why they were in-Exported......9,323,600 lbs

Mr. Flower, of New York, made a speech in the national House of Representatives some years ago which he had printed in pamphlet form along with the Federal Constitution, and in this form had his speech and the Constitution distributed amongst his constituents and others. In view of recent decisions of certain of our courts, both State and Federal, we are inclined to think that we can render a service to our readers by laving before them eleven of the articles of amendment which the fathers considered necessary to the proper understanding of the body of the Federal Constitution. They are as follows:

Article I. Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

Article II. A well-regulated militia, being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not Article III. No soldier shall, in time of peace be quartered in any house, without the consent of the owner, or in time of war but in a manne

Article IV. Article V. No person shall be held to answer for a capital or otherwise infamous crime unless on a presentment or indictment of a grand jury, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces or in the militis, when in actual service in time of war or public danger; nor shall any person be subject for the same offence to be twice put rdy of life or limb; nor shall he be comgainst himself, or be deprived of life, liberty, without just compensation.

Article VI. In all criminal presecutions the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial by an impartial jury of the State and district wherein the crime shall have been committed, which district shall have been previously mitted, which district shall have been previously assertained by law, and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor, and to have the assistance of counsel for Article VII. In suits at common law where the value in controversy shall exceed twenty dollars the right of trial by jury shall be preserved, and no fact tried by a jury shall be otherwise reexamined in any court of the United States than according to the rules of the common law.

Article VIII. Excessive ball shall not be restricted over the restrict that the restricted over the restrict of the restricted over the restrict of Article VIII. Excessive fines imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted.

Article X. The powers not delegated to the construction of the constitution of United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively or to the people.

latitudinarian constructionist cannot find a word which does not apply sotely to the Federal Government.
The second, third, and fourth are almost as evidently intended to be limitations upon the powers of the Federal Govern-

The fifth is so plainly applicable only to at Chicago during the Exposition.

If there is to be a reunion (about the usefulness of which there are two opinthe Federal Government that nobody will seriously contend that it was not designed to be a limitation upon the powers of that Government. The words "land and naval ions) we say let all matters of detail be forces" show clearly that the "grand jury" spoken of is the grand jury of the United States Courts—not of the State expected to bring their tattered battlefiags let it be so understood. If it will not be amiss for such of them as have their Confederate uniforms to wear them, let courts. But we need not argue the point.

The article speaks for itself.

The sixth, in using the word "State." tells its own story. All the "criminal prosecutions" spoken of must be in the Federal courts, and they must be carried on in the State where the crime is alleged to have been committed. If the criminal prosecutions referred to were in the State courts there would be no sense in providing that the accused should have a jury from his own State or the State wherein the of-sition will open in May, 1895—thirty years after the battle of Gettysburg. It ought to be celebrated by a reunited country, and mean suits at common law in the State courts, but we cannot think that it was ever intended by the fathers to be anyin this respect. But there will be lots of bother about this reunion, unless the Com-mittee of Arrangements anticipates all the questions that can be raised by rabid radithing but a restriction upon the powers of the Federal Government or Federal courts. We can only express our surprise that the words of the Constitution could have been tortured so as to yield the construction em. Read over the seventh article of nendment and see if it was not meant to rance that their presence at Chicago will be gratifying to the public and helpful to apply to the Federal courts only.

The eighth is of a like kind. It refers to the Federal courts.
The ninth, tenth, and eleventh are to plain to call for comment.

Taken altogether, these articles of amendment indicate the spirit and wishes of the men who framed the body of the Federal Constitution. We repeat our expression of surprise that there can be two opinions on the subject.

Reply of Dr. Parker to the Dispaten's Reference to His Essay.

In your notice of my essay read before the American Medical Association in Washington last May you quote Herbert Spencer as saying that "the intelligence of a chicken running about in search of food differs from man's intelligence rather in degree than in kind." This is about the opinion of most people.

You ask my opinion on "Evolution." I infer from this that you had not time to read one fourth of what is written?

I am not sufficiently acquainted with zoology to treat the subject of "evolution" in a scientific manner, but in preparing my essay on Animal Instinct I was lead to compare it in some sort with man's intelligence, and soon found that there was really no ground of comparison but rather of contrast. I wrote: "To say, therefore, with Darwin that there is one or two "missing links" between animal and human intelligence is to speak without reason." I give eleven points of contrast and show that man's highest perceptions (moral perceptions) have no existence even in embryo in animals, and that not one—not a thousand links would raise the animal intelligence to that of man.

These are the eleven contrasts:

In animals intelligence is K, in man the complex problem.

In animals intelligence is a drop, in man of population and money values has never been in the nature of a boom her people have been fully en rapport with the spirit of the age, but have preferred the more conservative policy of a development based upon a solid foundation. HOW MISS DOVE WAS DROWNED.

[Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.] [Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.]
ALEXANDRIA, July 6.—The report that Miss Ella Dove fell from the gang-plank of the steamer is a false one. The greater portion of the wharf where the accident occurred is taken up by a large warehouse and persons who wish to get to the shore
when the warehouse is locked have to pass over a narrow ledge about three feet wide between the side of the warehouse and the edge of the wharf. It was coming along this ledge that the young lady tripped and

NO TRACE OF THE BODY. Although a large number of men have been constantly at work since Saturday night last dragging for the body, and the District of Columbia harbor police-boat has been assisting them by firing guns, hoping to raise the body in this way, no trace of it has as yet been found.

The drowning has been the theme of conversation everywhere in this neighborhood, and much sympathy is expressed for the bereaved parents of the young lady. the public. THE BLACK REPUBLIC.

Indications That It Will Soon Have An

(By telegraph to the Dispatch.)

Ry York, July 6.—The Atlas-Line steamer Alvena, which has arrived here from Jeremie and other West Indian ports, brings some interesting Haytien news. The Alvena left Jeremie on June 20th and there were then indications that the Black Republic would soon be the scene of another bloody rebellion.

Jeremie is in the southern part of Hayti, where Hippolyte possessed his strongest support in wresting the presidency from Legitime. At present, however, that section of the island is bitterly opposed to Hippolyte and there are loud mutterings against his rule. So strong is the opposition to the present President that an outbreak is apt to occur at any moment. Many of the residents are so fearful of the impending insurrection that they are leaving in all haste. The Alvena carried a number of residents of Jeremie to Kingston, Jamaica, and other fugitives are leaving on every departing vessel.

number of residents of determine to Kingston, Jamaica, and other fugitives are leaving on every departing vessel.

Second-Officer Seagraves, of the Alvena, said that an old resident of Jeremie, who formerly occupied an important position under the Government, told him that the present Government will not last long. The people are so constituted that it is almost impossible for any form of government to last long. An old Haitien politician named Maybrant is secretly fomenting a rebellion and is looked upon as Hippolyte's successor in case the President is overthrown. Legitime, it is said, has no longer any strength and will not figure in any future rebellion. Hippolyte is an old man of seventy-five and does not appreciate the danger to his rule. He knows his enemies are at work and is bending all his power to crush them, but he cannot reach the principal men. There have been no executions by Hippolyte's soldiers since the execution of the six men reported some time ago.

AN ESCAPE FROM PRISON FOILED. It was to Have Been Made Through the Flue that Served Morgan.

(By telegraph to the Dispatch.)

Columbus, O., July 9.—A guard of the Ohio penitentiary made a discovery yesterday which prevented the escape of three condemned men from the annex where they are to be executed. Edward Blair, who murdered a railroad agent in Futnam county, had planned the escape. While the other prisoners were being given exercise he would insist on being left in the annex for rest, and in the absence of the guard he cut through the stone floor of a vacant cell eighteen inches square, which led to an air-flue extending into the yard. A steel case knife had been made into a saw for the purpose. The prisoners had arranged to go out last night, but the guard suspected something wrong and instituted an investigation. The stone sawed out was two inches thick. The hole was cut into the same air-flue through which John Morgan, the famous leader of Morgan's raiders, escaped during the war. The cell occupied by Blair is the one occupied by Morgan when he was in prison. Blair will be executed August 21st. Flue that Served Morgan.

A young Russian Isrealite named Solomon Berwinkie, a peddler, was arrested in Amherst county on Saturday last charged with the murder of Simon Jacobs, also a Jewish peddler, last April, Both men were engaged in peddling jewelry and were in partnership and worked different sections of the country. Jacobs's body was found in the woods in April. As the two men were seen together some few days before the body was found, Berwinkie was suspected. To-day at the examination Berwinkie proved that on the day or night of the murder he was in Brookneal, Campbell county, and he was released.

SUDDEN DEATH OF D. J. TENNANT. Mr. Cephas Williams Caught Under Bags of Wheat and Killed-Second Trial.

[Special telegram to the Dispatch.] [Special telegram to the Dispatch.]

DANVILLE, VA. July 6.—Douglas J. Tennant, a druggist, and who lived in Washington, came here Saturday last on a visit. He remained here Sunday, and during his stay was believed to be in good health. On Sunday evening he went to the West-End Pharmacy, and while there complained of feeling unwell, and in a short while was a corpse. Heart-disease was the supposed cause of death. His body was prepared for burial, and this morning was expressed to his relatives in Washington. He was a most capable pharmacist, and was in the employ at one time of Dr. H. W. Cole, druggist, of this city.

SMOTHERED TO DEATH. SMOTHERED TO DEATH.

Mr. Cephas Y. Williams, about fifty years of age, and who resided near Chestnut Level, in this county, met with a horrible death last Saturday. He had garnered, threshed, and bagged his wheat, and was storing it in his storehouse. In the floor he had machinery, and as he was placing his last bag of grain the flooring gave way, precipitating everything into the cellar below. The bags of wheat burst and Mr. Williams was caught beneath the debris and smothered to death. The deceased was an excellent citizen, a well-to-dofarmer, and leaves several children, nearly all grown. [Special telegram to the Dispatch.]

Belfield, Va., July 6.—John Davis (colored) struck Wash. Ridley (colored) on the head this evening with an axe, crushing in his skull, causing death in a short time. The murderer, not satisfied with his fatal blow, chopped the face of his victim in a most brutal manner. It seems that a woman is the cause of the homicide. NO TROUBLE FEARED.

Davis has been arrested and is now safely lodged in jail. There is much feeling on the part of the colored people, but no danger is feared. MRS. JULIA JACKSON-CHRISTIAN.

Her Body Placed Beside That of Her Distinguished Father.

[By telegraph to the Dispatch.] Lexington, Va., July 6.—It has just been learned that the body of Mrs. Julia Jackson-Christian, the daughter of Stonewall Jackson, was on Friday night at 10 o'clock secretly removed from its resting-place in the City cemetery and placed in the crypt in the vault beside her distinguished father, whose remains will be placed under the Jackson statue. Her husband on Friday gave his permission for the removal of the body.
